

The I in Academic Integrity

At Scotia-Glenville High School and in your future job, using ideas, information, images, or iPod tunes (or other music that belongs to people) without giving credit is a serious offense. This offense varies from minor (using a few words written by another without giving credit) to major (presenting the entire work of another person as your own). Whether major or minor, plagiarism brings consequences.

Appendix A of our Scotia-Glenville High School Code of Conduct gives you the academic consequences for any student who chooses to plagiarize. Read it and live it!
